Depending on the type of job you are being interviewed for, you should consider carefully what you wear to the interview...

- Suit (for professional type careers);
- Long tailored pants;
- Long sleeve shirt (to match suit/pants);
- Belt;
- Tie (if appropriate);
- Dark socks, conservative leather shoes;
- Little or no jewelry;
- Neat, professional hairstyle;

Avoid:
- Carrying a backpack;
- Sunglasses on top of your head or headphones around your neck;
- A hat, cap or beanie;
- The wrong tie;
- Overly bright or large-patterned clothing;
- Leaving your shirt un-tucked;
- Excess facial hair—don’t turn up with three days growth if you are usually clean shaven;
- Earrings on men;
- Facial piercings, tongue jewelry or visible tattoos;
- Ill-fitting clothes;
- Dirty or rumpled clothes;
- Long fingernails and dirty fingernails;
- Visible underwear—no-one in your future workplace cares what brand your undies are;
- Unnatural hair colors or styles;
- Short-sleeved shirts, even worse when worn with a tie;
- Scuffed, dirty or inappropriate footwear;
- Strong aftershave.

Interview Questions

At the interview you will be asked a series of questions about why you would be the most suitable person for the job. Questions may include:

- Tell us about yourself?
- Why do you want this job?
- What skills and abilities could you bring to the job?
- What experience do you have?
- What are your long term goals?
- You may be asked to give an example of how you would approach a particular situation, e.g. "what would you do if...?"
- What are your strengths and weaknesses?
- Are you prepared to undergo training?
- Be sure to have a list of your own questions to ask the interviewer.

A good employee has a good attitude, can communicate with customers and colleagues, can work as part of a team, is independent, can follow instructions, is flexible, is dedicated and focused and is honest. You should be prepared to put in a good day's work for a good day's pay.

Remember, you are not going to start out as "the boss". You need to learn what's involved with the job and what you can do to move up the ladder. Tackle each job with enthusiasm and be prepared to learn everything you can about the business. You will be asked to do menial and boring tasks to start out with and these may be repetitive but the more you prove what you are capable of the more you will be given to do.
